4th Regional meeting

These are some key takeaways from the IV AUSA Region Meeting hosted by the Omar Bradley Chapter (El Paso). Patti McCoy represented our chapter. JP, the AUSA IV Region Executive Director, and Jeff, Chairman and CEO of the Army Scholarship Foundation, served double duty.

This year's discussion was Listen, Examine, Think Possibilities. JP led the working sessions, critically assessing each chapter's annual plan and then focusing on what chapters could do: What happens if... This interactive session included each chapter developing a strategy to increase member growth substantially. Our chapter strategy rested on communication. The following tools would be utilized to support the communication strategy:

- Revise our Why North Texas Audie—Murphy Chapter to read, “You can make a difference in a soldier’s life by...”
- Develop and launch a Monthly Event Calendar,
- Collaborate with National to create a QR code that makes membership easier

In the 2025-26 plan, chapters must identify a roadmap for where and how they connect with soldiers. Other suggestions shared by chapter leaders and Gus included developing a chapter “why” talking sheet and finding ways to leverage other chapters' opportunities, such as the posts close to the chapters, Community Partners, Cadet Command, etc.

AUSA rolled out the Fellows program as a strategic tool to showcase “Educate, Inform, and Consent. Shout out to JP, who recently was appointed a Fellow! The Center for Leadership was another AUSA program promoted for chapters to leverage specifically with recruiters.

Be assured, each Chapter Leader will be assigned an AUSA IV Region Leader who will remain focused on ensuring the chapter receives the necessary resources and guidance to sustain its success. Our Regional Leader will be Gus Rodriguez. This support is pivotal for our collective growth and success.
